

HAWAI'I ISLAND MARKET UPDATE

APRIL 2025

The recent sales bump heading into the spring selling season was short-lived, as both total sales and median prices retreated in April. Many potential buyers stepped to the sidelines amid uncertainty surrounding tariffs, the broader economy, and a softening housing market. The market is currently divided into three distinct segments: properties priced below $1 million, those above $1 million, and the condo sector—each showing different levels of activity and buyer demand. Similar conditions are expected to persist in the near term. However, with some increased economic clarity and relief in mortgage interest rates, the market could rebound quickly.
